Hello,

Discord is focused on maintaining a safe and secure environment for our community. We've found your account to be in violation of our Terms of Service or Community Guidelines. As a result, we've disabled your account for the following reason:

Your account sent threats to others, participated in targeted harassment, incited violence against individuals or communities, or was involved in a server dedicated to these behaviors.

Sincerely,
Discord Trust & Safety

747 ▼ Stickying because /new is flooded with this.

The server that was banned was not officially affiliated with us, and our server remains up.

When Discord bans a server, it normally also bans all members (regardless of whether or not the individuals did anything more than join the server), and that appears to have happened here.

We have known for years that Discord is a typical leftist company. No surprise.

We will also continue to explore self-hosted alternatives to our Discord server (which, again, remains up at this time).

Open to suggestions. Looking for something that is proven to scale to thousands of concurrent users, and preferably a group/guild/server system like Discord has (versus Slack, where it's just one group)

Unusable. Complete embarrassment compared to telegram's functionality. Sick of hearing of that fucking app. Like 'tiktok' and 'snapchat' all these redundant apps with 0 functionality

Use Telegram NOT VK.com - VK is fully controlled by Putin's regime, and he will betray any organization to the US Deep State if it suits his own goals. He is not worth the trust unless you have no other choice (ex: Snowden).

Telegram was made by a person that originally made VK and had it stolen by the regime. It is a much better service with actual encryption and servers much more secure against governments.

▼ It isn't them simply pushing the positions.

It is them taking over our culture, media, education and communication, including language itself. That is the reason people with different opinions are asking themselves "how would that look".

'Pushing their bullshit nonstop' is not at all how this was achieved. No progressive started with "Hey, I want to dress up in drag and go sing to kids as they sit on my lap at the library". It started as "Hey, I think everyone should get equal treatment"

Not being afraid to go against the cultural progressive standard is definitely the start of reversing this, but it doesn't start with "hey, let's kill people by throwing them out of helicopters". It starts with "hey, maybe we should let parents choose the public school their children go to" and "hey, maybe we should be treating people with mental illness instead of playing along with their delusions".

And then it should end there and not go to helicopters.

30 Anything centralized and owned by a company is not safe. They can be pressured. Imagine if the same thing were to happen right before the rally. We need a better option.

EDIT:

Why Matrix?

1. It's open source. It isn't controlled by a single company that can be pressured by alphabet agencies or foreign countries.
2. It's distributed. There isn't a single point of failure.
3. It's encrypted.

How to join:

1. Visit and make an account <https://app.element.io/#register>
2. When creating your account, choose "advanced" and use the homeserver URL <https://matrix.donaldsarmy.us>

Keep daily backups of the shared files you've worked on.

17 Do it old school. Back a few years ago we used something called IRC, and I was on there for years... Then everything went centralized with discord, slack, reddit, facebook, twitter, etc.

It may be time to go back to IRC. At the very least, I wish people would learn to use it, it's not really much harder than discord. You can even run your own server if necessary.

I actually like the lack of persistence to some degree -- persistence on these platforms means that something you said years ago can still be indexed and searched, and quoted years later. Sometimes I like to just have a conversation, and not think that it is being recorded.

That being said, those are other very good points. We need some better technology, IRC was invented in the 80's and does have a lot of issues just due to age.

I doubt your claim.

And all you have to do is send a ping to stay connected.

Also there are Cloud IRC servers now where you can loiter the whole time.

1 Enough people have smartphones that are online 100% of the time nowadays that they can afford to leave a mobile IRC client running in the background.

The independence of IRC is worth the cost of it not being as easy to use as Discord.

Fuck telegram. It requires a phone number and all your data is on their servers.

There is already a Matrix server that the admins were using as a backup. Anyone who joined the discord was told to screenshot the backup instructions. Everyone who paid attention is getting invited to the matrix server right now as we speak.

I don't know how they plan to share information about the server so I won't say anything publicly just yet.

Corporations are not above basic natural rights. Constitutional rights are basic natural rights. They were not given by Gov or even man. They are basic natural rights that nobody from nowhere, no group, no institution on the face of this great earth can lord over and stand over top of. So...again...Discord and all these corporations are stripping you, me, and everyone else of these basic natural rights. The right to speak. They do not own your voice. They do not have rights to your voice. It is yours. You may speak them and type them in various forums across this earth...but it is yours by natural right and shall not be silenced.

▼ Discord IS a psy-op. It has been since day 1.

The intelligence community hates ventrilo, teamspeak, and such. They can't track or tap them. Look at their early days. Their monetization strategy was nonexistent

▼ You guys should be using Keybase, which encrypts communication and functions similar to discord/slack/whatever else.

It's much more secure.

▼ Exact same response I got when appealing, too.

If they just did a blanket disable of every account that's ever joined TheDonald, that's gotta be several tens of thousands of accounts at least right? And that's gotta be one of the largest social media "nukes" in

I feel like if people actually got the word out about this, this could become a bigger story. I never even posted on the channel; but I do use Discord for a bunch of other daily things that are now gonna be impossible without it.
